SEEKS TO RECOVER $5,000 DAMAGES.

M. F. Sharp Files Suit Against Breckenridge Democrat.

Outgrowth of Fight Between Home Warehouse and Louis- ville Warehouse People.

Suit has been filed in the Ohio Circuit Court against the Breckenridge County Democrat, a paper published at Hardinsburg, by Assistant State Organizer, M. F. Sharp, of the A. S. of E. The suit was brought because of an article, or attack on Mr. Sharp, which was reproduced recently. The defendants are Henry DeHaven Moorman, W. R. Moorman, Sr., and Roy E. Moorman. The petition alleges that Henry DeHaven Moorman, who is also county judge, is editor, W. R. Moorman, Sr., owner, and Roy E. Moorman, business manager of the Breckenridge Democrat.

After reciting the facts connected with his recent visit to Hardinsburg and the County Union at that place the plaintiff quotes the article complained of and which we have heretofore published. The petition concludes as follows:

"He says said statements were and are false and libelous and were published by the defendants maliciously and with the purpose and intent to injure, degrade and defame him and to destroy his influence with the American Society of Equity, and that by reason of said false and malicious publication, as aforesaid, his influence in Ohio and Breckenridge and other counties of this state with the Society has been greatly injured and decreased and his standing and influence as a man and a citizen has been greatly injured and that he has been humiliated thereby and suffered great humiliation, mental anguish and pain on account of said false and malicious publications and has been degraded in the estimation and opinion of his neighbors and the people of his county and State and all to his great damage in the sum of five thousand ($5,000) dollars.

Wherefore plaintiff prays judgment against the defendants for the sum of five thousand ($5,000) dollars, his cost herein expended and all proper relief."

The article was written because Mr. Sharp made a speech at the Breckenridge county Union advocating a continuation of the present system of financing the and marketing the pooled tobacco, to which Mr. Moorman is very much opposed.

The petition is signed by Glenn and Zimmerman and Heavrin and Woodward, as attorneys.

Among The Lodges.

The W. O. W. meeting time has been changed from the 2nd and 4th Wednesday nights, to the 2nd and 4th Saturday nights.

At the regular meeting of Rough River lodge K. of P. Tuesday night, the new officers served a nice treat to the members and visitors. A large tank of ice cold punch with cake, was placed in easy reach of all. This lodge will have work in the third rank next Tuesday night. The new officers are starting off well, and indications are that it will be a successful term.

Hartford lodge No 675 F. and A. M. at a call meeting last Monday night, did work in all three degrees. At night Dr. J. R. Pirtle and Berry Taylor were made Master Masons.

Members of Keystone Chapter No. 10, will attempt to accomplish an immense amount of work to-morrow night. At that time a lunch will be served, and the Chapter will undergo annual inspection by Companion Hendrick, of Madisonville.

Few Drunks at Street Fair.

It was common comment that more drinking was engaged in and more drunkenness was in evidence during Street Fair last Saturday than has been in Hartford in many a day. Taylor, of color, has been arrested on a charge of selling liquor without authority. If Luke sold alcohol was consumed he certainly ordered in large quantities.

Baize was arrested for drunkenness Friday and Lester Arbuckle and Aaron Riley, of color, were taken into custody Saturday.

The above was put in type before the above warrants have been issued against Bill Duke and W. M. Lyons charging them also with selling liquor without license.

Skidoo Girls Entertained.

The younger gentry not to be out done by the "Butinskys" tendered the "Skidoo" girls and guests a delightful "bus" ride "around" town last Sunday. Those composing the happy party were: Misses Winnie Cottrell and Cova Anderson, of Owensboro, Bella Thompson, of Sturgis, Annie Keown, Mary E. Marks, Alice Keown, Sarah Keown, Ruth Riley, Nora Wedding, Mary Spalding, Elsie Matthews and Messrs. Vivian Haswell, of Hardinsburg, Martin Thomas, McHenry and Harold Holbrook, Estill Park, Byron Foster, John J. Williams and Joshua C. Field.

WAS ATTEMPTING TO EAT GRASS WHEN FOUND

Louis Foulks, Native of Germany, is Insane--He Cannot Speak English.

Louis Henry Foulks, a native of Germany, and apparently insane, was attempting to eat grass in a cornfield at Stanley when arrested by Deputy Sheriff Winstead Saturday.

Mr. Winstead was summoned to Stanley by telephone message from the residents of that place stating that an unknown old man was creating much excitement by his strange actions and had approached several of the farm houses in that section and nearly frightened the women and children to death.

At the county judge's office Foulks told Mr. Phil R. Zulauf, the jeweler, who acted as interpreter, the old man being unable to speak English, that his home was in Newburg, Indiana, but he could not explain his presence at Stanley, or account for his strange actions. He said that he had been without food for several days and was starving, which probably accounted for his attempting to feed on grass.

Mr. Zulauf and Dr. J. Glahn, who also talked with the old man, said that he was highly educated in German, speaking the language fluently. He told them that he was born in Dresden, Saxony, and was seventy-four years old and although he had been a resident of the United States for twenty-five years could not speak English at all.

At times Foulks seemed rational and appeared to be highly incoherent that he should be arrested and held, protesting that he was a law-abiding citizen and committed no offense.

Judge Owen telephoned to Newburg and was told that Foulks formerly lived there, but had sold his farm and had moved to Spottsville, Ky. The judge was unable to get telephone communications with Spottsville Saturday evening and ordered the old man in the custody of Jailor Calhoun, who will feed and take care of him until his relatives can be located.

It is the opinion of Dr. Glahn that the old man wandered away from his home while temporarily unbalanced, probably caused by the extreme heat of the past week and, being in a strange land, unable to speak the language had nearly starved which added to his mental derangement.—Owensboro Messenger.

Charged With Unnatural Offense.

Tuesday afternoon a warrant was sworn out for Jim Jarnagin, of color. He is charged with having incestuous intercourse with his fifteen-year-old daughter. The warrant was at once placed in the hands of Sheriff R. B. Martin, and by six o'clock that night Jarnagin was in custody. Jarnagin is now in jail awaiting examining trial. If he is guilty the extreme penalty of the law should be given him. He hails from McHenry where he is known and belongs to a class of worthless individuals.

TOBACCO HELD TWO YEARS SOLD.

Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Co. Sells Green River Leaf.

Was Part of the 1905 Crop Placed With the Warehouse by the A. S. of E.

The Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Company has sold 6,500 hogheads of the dark Green river crop of 1905, which was stored by the Green river branch of the American Society of Equity.

The sale is one of the most important in years and interests the growers and tobacco dealers and financial interests generally.

The owners of the tobacco had pooled their interests through the Society of Equity and stored the tobacco with the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Company. The banks had loaned money on it and a great deal of local capital was in this way tied up while waiting for the tobacco to be sold.

The total price that was received for the tobacco was about $700,000. The purchasers came to the terms which had been fixed by the Society of Equity.

The Warehouse Company says that the tobacco was sold to various manufacturers and exporters, and that none of it was sold to the American Tobacco Company, the trust.

The consignment was a mixture of leaf, lugs and trash. The leaf brought from $10 to $10.50, while the lugs and trash ranged from $6.50 to $6.75 per hundred. The average would make the total something over $650,000, with $700,000 as the estimated total.

An officer of the warehouse company said that the sale is one of the most remarkable ever made in Louisville. The tobacco has been selling on the breaks at from $3.50 to $4 per hundred.

The consignment was received about a year ago, some of it coming in as late as October, 1906, but none of it was disposed of until late in March, 1907; so that the demand for this grade necessarily made it valuable, and the purchasers were willing to pay almost any amount for it when the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Company decided to place it on the market.

The effects of the sale, releasing as it does hundreds of thousands of capital, will be generally felt both in Louisville and throughout the Green river section.

OHIO COUNTY CHILD LOST IN OWENSBORO.

No Trace of Father Can be Found--Little One Re- turned Home.

Tuesday's Owensboro Inquirer contains the following pitiful account of the actions of a crazed or heartless father.

"Crying on the street a little girl" was found in front of F. T. Guenther Grocery company's store on East Second street, about 10 o'clock this morning.

Upon inquiry it was found that she had come to the city with her father Elijah Ransom, and had become separated from him. She was crying as if her heart would break when she was found by Mrs. M. F. Cravens and taken into the grocery company's store where she was questioned by Mr. W. S. Hazel and a few others. She said her father was Elijah Ransom and that they had arrived on the train at 7 a. m. They came down town and in some way were separated, and the girl was crying and calling for her father, when she was found in front of the store.

The little girl is about seven years of age and was well dressed. She had an intelligent looking face. She had a new pair of lace shoes, and said they were bought at Gropp's, but inquiry at Stanley failed to verify her statement. The Perkins and Sanders shoe store was visited, thinking she knew them by the old firm name, but she had not been there.

Mr. Hazel turned the girl over to Walter Booth, and he started with her to find her father. She was taken to the Star restaurant on Second, between Fredrica and St. Elizabeth streets, and was identified by some people there.

Her father is Elijah Ransom, and resides at McHenry, Ohio county, and on the main line of the I. C. railroad.

The two arrived in the city this morning and the father is a tall, large man. He was last seen on Fredrica street. The child's grandparents were telephoned to and Will Raymond, of McHenry, her grandfather, telephoned back to send the child to him on the L. and N. this afternoon.

When the child was found the police started a hunt for the father but no trace of him has been found. The police are watching for him as it is thought he is still in the city.

SHOULD BE NO BOND ISSUE AT PRESENT.

Systematic Instruction of the People on Care of Roads Advocated.

Editors Republican:—Being an advocate of good roads for some years and after giving the cause some study I have decided that now is not the proper time to bond the county for $100,000 or any other amount for purpose of road improvements but that what we need is an educational campaign along the line of institute work, say in each Magisterial district and certainly the revenues of the county would be sufficient to have experts come and explain the best methods of working our soils and making the best possible roads for we can't hope for years, to get any considerable mileage macadamized for we have 10,000 miles of roads in the county and the proposed bond issue would not make one good road across the county. We need to learn how to care for our roads to keep them good at some expense, get up a sentiment of public spirit that will not demand that every improvement come out of the county funds, but that each citizen has a duty for the common good even to a personal sacrifice.

SPLIT LOG DRAG.

NARROWS.

July 17.—Rev. W. H. Foreman and family, of Hardinsburg, are visiting here.

Rev. F. M. Petty, parson of Rivers memorial Methodist church, Louisville, with his family are here to spend a few days with relatives and friends.

Mr. R. K. Bean, of Rockford, Ky., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Bean at Sulphur Springs the first of the week.

Mr. Jack Walker went over to Rosine Saturday night and came home Monday. Think there was a woman in the case.

Miss Rosa Shreve has gone to Louisville to take a position as nurse in one of the hospitals. Miss Shreve's naturally sweet temperament excellently fits her for such a work of mercy.

Hon. Charles L. Wedding, of Evansville, one of the best known attorneys of Southern Indiana, came up Tuesday to visit his son, Webster, who lives on the old farm near Mt. Vernon church where Mr. Wedding was born about sixty years ago.

Mr. Templeton Young who owns a large tract of land at Olton has contracted with well digging people for the sinking of a well one thousand feet deep. Mr. Young believes his land is underlaid with oil yielding rock and will spend some money to test his belief. The venture will be watched with interest by the people here.

The appointment of Mr. Mack Daniel to the vacancy in the jailers office meets the universal approval of his friends and neighbors here. Mr. Daniel is a sober, industrious and deserving young man and no better man for the position could be found. By the death of his father when Mack was about twelve years old he became the head of the family consisting of his mother and three sisters. How well he kept the charge will be attested by the honor that came to him in his appointment as a county official.

Mr. Daniel comes of Democratic stock on both sides and deserves much of the Republican party for starting right in politics.

WORLD'S GREATEST TOBACCO MARKET

To be at Louisville Plans of A. S. of E.

Seek Control of Louisville Ware- house--The Business Men Will Aid.

Louisville, Ky., July 11.—If the plans of the Kentucky delegates to the meeting of the American Society of Equity which is being held at the Board of Trade building are carried out Louisville will not only be the greatest tobacco market in the world, but millions of dollars going elsewhere now will be spent here annually. The effort will be made to make Louisville the great center of the tobacco growers of the United States, centralizing the tobacco market at this point.

To this end a proposition to purchase 51 per cent. of the stock of the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse Company is now being considered by the stockholders. The proposition comes from the Tobacco Growers' department of the American Society of Equity. The Louisville Tobacco Warehouse company is the biggest concern of its kind in the country, and is capitalized at $1,780,000 of which $200,000 is preferred stock. The stockholders number about 500, the principal ones being I. P. Barnard, Basil Doerhoefer, Laban Phelps, Harry Smyser, J. S. Phelps, W. O. Head and Henry Glover.

Believing that the Society of Equity is in earnest a pool of the stockholders of the Louisville Warehouse company is now being made and it has been ascertained, it is said, that a large majority of the stock can be pooled. It is necessary that the society get control of the warehouse company before the movement now under way can be successfully carried out.

If the plan proposed is effected then all of the tobacco grown in Kentucky, Tennessee, Wisconsin, West Virginia and other points will be pooled in Louisville and all sales made here. With Louisville as the central market millions of dollars more would be brought here every year.

There are seven distinct tobacco organizations, all of which are federated in the National Tobacco Growers' association, which is a department of the American Society of Equity. E. L. Davenport, of Greenville, Ky., is president, and S. P. Lee, of Owensboro, is secretary of the association, and they are actively interested in the movement to get control of the Louisville Warehouse company.

In Memory.

Of Ida Ruth, wife of Birch Monroe, of near Horton, who died last night, July 15th, aged 24 years, 3 months and 23 days. She was the only daughter of Henry M. and Mary A. Ashby. In October 1906 she was married to Birch Monroe, a son of John Monroe, now deceased. About four years ago she professed faith in Christ and had since lived a faithful and consistent member of the Bethel church. She was a devoted wife and daughter and loved by all who knew her. She leaves besides her heart-broken husband, both parents and one brother who with a host of other relatives and friends will never cease to mourn her departure. It is so hard to give her up but we know that what is our loss is Heaven's gain.

ON THE SURFACE OF THE MOON.

New Theory Concerning the Crust of Our Nearest and Most Beautiful Satellite.

The moon has been much studied of late, it is sometimes said that its surface is better known than the geography of certain parts of the earth. In spite of this, however, says the London Globe, there is still much difference of opinion as to its real nature and the cause of those operations which have left their marks so conspicuously upon it. Prof. Pickering, for example, has recently concluded, from certain changes which take place in the appearance of certain parts, that the old theory of a molten-out cinder, where nothing happens, must be discarded. He considers, that is to say, that there is no proof of present day lunar volcanic activity as well as evidence of vegetation.

And in his recently published work, Phillip Fauth sets forth a new view of the moon's constitution. In the first place, the author dwells on the difficulty of interpreting the appearances of the moon's surface in terms of terrestrial volcanology. The so-called volcanoes of the moon can not, he thinks, be due to the causes which have produced those of the earth. Their enormous relative size for example is difficult to explain on the basis that they are the result of similar forces. One of our lunar features, known to astronomers as Clavius, has a diameter of 142 miles high. When this is compared with the average size of the terrestrial volcano, and when it is remembered that the earth is fifty times as large as the moon, the difficulty of accounting for lunar "volcanoes" by forces similar to those which have produced the volcanoes of the earth is apparent. And that the moon, although so much smaller than the earth, should have mountain peaks reaching to greater heights than those of the Himalayas is another difficulty.

To account then for the known phenomena of the moon, Mr. Fauth proposes the following lunar theory: Our satellite must be covered with a thick layer of ice for nothing else, he declares, will account for the appearances he has observed during the fourteen days lunar day. Beneath this crust of ice is an ocean which by its motions, due to tides, etc., has produced the scarred and fractured surface with which we are familiar. Inside these shells of ice and water lies a solid nucleus, which may be looked upon as the real moon. The author of this theory agrees with the older view that the moon has no atmosphere. But it is difficult to understand how it could have a surface of solid water without a consequent envelope of water vapor. Evaporation would take place from the surface of the ice, forming an aqueous atmosphere, from which the moisture would be continually return by precipitation as snow.

Cured of Lung Trouble.

"It is now eleven years since I had a narrow escape from consumption," writes C. O. Floyd, a leading business man of Kershaw, S. C. "I had run down in weight to 135 pounds, and coughing was constant, both by day and by night. Finally I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and continued this for about six months, when my cough and lung trouble were entirely gone and I was restored to my normal weight, 170 pounds." Thousands of persons are healed every year. Guaranteed by all druggists drug store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

Railroad Men Wanted.

The demand for telegraph operators was never as great as right now. The Bowling Green Business University has turned out more operators than any school south of the Ohio river, and still the demand upon it is as great as ever. Its operators are wanted by twenty-three railroads. This is inclusive evidence that the training it gives is satisfactory. Young men desiring information concerning telegraphy positions should write to the Business University at Bowling Green, Ky. Bookkeepers and stenographers are in equally as great demand.

The Right Name

Mr. August Sherpe, the popular owner of the poor, at Fort Madison, Mo., says: "Dr. King's New Life Pills, are rightly named; they act more agreeably, do more good and make one feel better than any other laxative." Guaranteed to cure biliousness and constipation. 25c at all druggists drug stores.

Forward Republicans.

Kentucky Republicans have the chance of their lives. The State government is within grasp. Louisville may be theirs. Nothing wanted to achieve results truly glorious and inaugurate benefits really permanent but organization. Efficient leaders, a just cause, an imperative call of duty, con-nest determination and fearless patriotic purpose are all ours. The work of organization should, therefore, proceed on lines safe and sane, till every Republican in every precinct be within reach. No movement that goes not into detail, that omits any precaution necessary to bring the entire party strength into line, can succeed.

The Republican host in Kentucky numbers 250,000 men. Every fifty of these should have a Captain, every 500 a colonel; every 5,000 a General. In the Hon. A. E. Willson the party has a Commander-in-chief with the comprehensiveness of a Washington, the daring of a Jackson, the fearlessness of a Grant. His lieutenants are all men of worth and power. No one but inspires confidence. No platform ever called so urgently for enthusiastic support.

If the Republicans of Kentucky desire victory, victory shall be theirs. It will be complete. It will insure not alone a clean State administration, but a Republican Legislature, which shall undo the iniquitous gerrymanders, denying more than half of the State's voting power due representation in the Legislature, on the bench and in Congress. The Civil war is over the wounds it left healed. The fight before us is not less strenuous, however than the bloody struggle in which our fathers bore gallant part.

A battle it is for altar and for fire-side. It is a fight for a better, a brighter and a purer Kentucky. Such a Kentucky the Hon. Augustus E. Willson is, in every respect, equipped to give us. Elect him, then, we must be a majority that will delight Kentuckians and surprise all Americans—Louisville Herald.

No Farmer Peasantry for America

When Joseph Chamberlain fought his long and hard battle for a Protective Tariff for Great Britain he won the admiration of the agricultural interests and the bitter hatred of the men who toiled in the mills and factories. Few of his countrymen fully understood Mr. Chamberlain's motive in advocating a high Tariff, and, naturally, fewer people abroad could see the motive behind his contention. The great Manchester statesman is still misunderstood—he has been called the most hated man in England—and it will, perhaps, be a century before England's people awaken to the fact that Mr. Chamberlain in his theories on the Tariff question had the knowledge and good sense to look far into the distant years in his campaign to shape the policy of the island kingdom. Mr. Chamberlain saw the imminent ruin of agriculture in England, Ireland and Scotland by the workings of a Free-Trade system; the building up of vast industrial enterprises which would drain the farms of their muscle and domestic life; the ultimate degeneration of England manhood in the congested tenement life of London and other big cities of industry and trade.

The "Wall Street Journal" publishes an editorial opinion on "Future of Farm Investments," and therein states what seems to be a danger to the American farm—the possibility, of a peasant tenantry in this country. It seems to think that two forces are heading American agriculture toward this status; the depopulating of rural communities by the cities and the American army navy, the tendency of American capital to group many farms into one vast estate and operate them by a system of hired labor.—Wichita (Kan.) TOBACCO GROWERS MUST NOT GET DISCOURAGED

Everything is Lovely Except in Daviess—More Tobacco Pooled Than Ever Before.

Now, that the pledges for 1907 will soon be circulated, let us get a move on us to see how much we can pledge this time. Don't get discouraged because a part of Daviess county doesn't pledge. Think what a small per cent. this is compared with what is pledged in other counties. Forty Burley counties have pledged over 90 per cent. Some of them will grow as much as the whole Green river district. The steaming district with four counties, is pooling double what the Green River district will pool more than will be put on the market in Daviess county. Now is the time to stand true and hold up the A. S. of E. until the earnest blows over. Men that are in earnest must get right and stand by the order altho the man in the moon was awp. All declare they believe in Equity. "If you love me keep my commandments." If they love the A. S. of E. they will stand by its by-laws. Let us give this our best thought, for we have much at stake. I have great hopes for the meeting on the 17th at Louisville. Business may be done at this meeting that will settle all future disputes.

Whitesville had another good meeting Saturday and elected its delegates to the county union.

Crops reported almost an entire failure, except meadows, which show a fair crop if they can be saved right. No corn, no tobacco, any account. Our finance committee is at work and will soon close a contract for the two largest rehauing houses in town. If the crop does not improve soon these two houses will hold it all.

A good magisterial district meeting was reported from Habit Saturday. The next meeting will be at Little Hickory school house in August.

He Hit it Right.

A humorous looking man went into a store the other day and sat down for half an hour or so, when a clerk asked him if there was anything he could do for him. He said no, he didn't want anything. He went away and came back and sat an hour or so longer, when the proprietor went to him and asked if he wanted to be shown anything. "No," said the nervous man, "I just wanted to sit around. My physician has recommended quiet to me, and says above all things I should avoid being in a crowd. Noticing that you do not advertise in a newspaper, I thought this would be as quiet a place as I could find, so I just dropped in for a few hours of isolation."

American Slang in Rome.

The universal spread of American slang is amazing and the globe trotter meets with it in the most unexpected places. Last October two Americans wandering about the Piazza d'Espagna in Rome were accosted by one of the innumerable small boys who sell postal card pictures of the Holy city. He held out a sheaf of postal cards and offered them for sale, stating the price in Italian.

The Americans did not care to buy and, like his guild the continent over, he followed them, and became a bit of a nuisance. But he was such a merry-eyed little chap they had not the heart to speak harshly to him. At last, however, they felt obliged to say "no" decidedly. It was then that he surprised them and gave them a queer little pull at their American heartstrings by saying his black eyes snapping with fun and the magnitude of the achievement: "Skeedoo! Skeedoo! Twenty-thr-r-ree!" Then he vanished with a burst of laughter.

But the sequel was equally interesting. Late that same afternoon the same couple came from the Catacombs into the white glare of the Applan way, five miles from the Piazza d'Espagna. They had hardly stepped into the street before the same urchin was at them again, and when he recognized them he was as amused as they. This time he did not offer them any cards, but simply held out his hand and said: "Skeedoo! Skeedoo! Twenty-thr-r-ree!" And he got his generous sold as he knew quite well he would.—New York World.

What one Bible can do.

One hundred and eighty years ago Pitcairn Islands had no inhabitants. At that time nine wicked sailors, who had sent their captain adrift in an open boat on that wide, lonely southern ocean, landed here to hide away from punishment.

In ten years they were all dead but one, six of them having been murdered. The one left, to take care of their wives which they had taken from Tahiti, and their twenty little children, was John Adams. The only book he had was a Bible, and he went to it to find out what to do for these poor little ones.

The precious Bible was the saving of them all. It taught John Adams to repent of his crimes, and to love the Lord. He became a new man, and a good and kind friend. The children all called him father, and he taught them to read and write and to obey and trust the Saviour. They grew up to be good, industrious and christian people.

For twenty-five years they had only that one book to read; so it was well studied and dearly loved. Their life is a beautiful token of what the Bible can do.

A cleansing, clean, cooling, soothing, healing household remedy is DeWitt's Carbolicized Witch Hazel Salve. For burns, cuts, scratches, bruises, insect bites, and sore feet it is unequalled. Good for Piles. Beware of imitations. Get DeWitt's. It is the best. Sold by all druggists. m in small cities and towns, because:

BUSINESS COLLEGES ARE FAILURES

1. There is not a sufficient population to support a GOOD school;
2. Such schools are usually conducted by persons who are NOT qualified, or who make it a practice to travel about and defraud their patrons;
3. There are few if any opportunities for their graduates to secure employment in such localities;
4. The THOROUGH business colleges are located in the larger cities and are conducted by persons who are qualified;
5. The graduates of business colleges in small cities or towns can not secure employment in large cities when thrown in competition with the THOROUGH graduates of high-class schools, as business men have no time to experiment with incompetents.
Therefore, be wise. Send for the finest page catalogue ever issued by a commercial school, before deciding to throw away your money in a worthless training at some cheap school.

Let Children Play.

From the nursery to the narrow house is but a relief journey, and in that brief space between the two termini the pleasantest domain ought to be that of childhood. Children alone, of human beings, have the capacity of unadulterated enjoyment. Their childhood, therefore, should be the holiday of life; its slave-day will soon be upon them and then farewell forever to the merry world, without a responsibility, a fear or a care, which is their rightful abiding-place until bore out into the tumult and the strife of the great maelstrom. Tasks they must learn, duties they must be taught but those who know how to interest the developing mind and to find it wisely with the element of knowledge, can make education one of childhood's pleasure.

Would Be Suicidal.

To build a new Tariff law would be the most difficult task the next Congress could possibly undertake. It would invite the opposition of every section of the country. New England wants certain schedules lowered while the West wants the same schedules left as they are. The South and West will naturally want other schedules lowered to which the East will strenuously object. It is obvious, therefore, that no general revision can be had without a long struggle and only after a multitude of compromises, the result of which no one can foretell. Why, then, should the party enter upon a proceeding of so doubtful propriety when there is no general demand for it? What business conditions warrant a change of certain schedules there will be no objection to having them, but, until that time arrives, it would be suicidal for Republicans to rush headlong into a laborious and prolonged effort to do something for which there is no demand.—St. Joseph (Mo.) TO CRUSH THE TOBACCO TRUSTS

Suit Already Begun in New York Federal Court.

Nine Companies and Ten Individuals Named as Defendants.

The Government on Wednesday of last week filed in the United States Circuit Court in the city of New York a petition against the American Tobacco Company, the Imperial Tobacco Company, the British-American Tobacco Company, the American Snuff Company, the American Cigar Company, the American Stogie Company, the American Stogie Company, the Corley Foil Company and fifty-six other corporations and twenty-nine individuals connected with the named companies.

These companies and individuals constitute what is generally known as the "tobacco trust," and the petition directed against them sets forth the purpose of the Government to dissolve this trust by breaking up the agreements under which the consolidated concerns are working. In showing the growth of the "trust" since its organization in 1890, the conclusion is reached that at an early day, unless prevented it would completely monopolize the entire tobacco industry.

That all of the defendants are engaged in interstate and foreign trade and commerce in the tobacco and products manufactured therefrom is alleged by the petition. It is stated that the act of July 2, 1890, "to protect trade and commerce" and subsequent acts, have been violated and the Government therefore seeks to prevent and restrain the unlawful existing agreements, combinations and conspiracies and attempts to monopolize, and break up perfected monopolies.

The Government asks that the existing combinations, conspiracies and monopolies be enjoined, and that each of the defendant companies be restrained from holding or controlling stock in any other. It is asked further that the Imperial Tobacco Company be enjoined from doing business within the jurisdiction of the United States until it shall have ceased to observe the terms of its agreement with American companies; that certain of the defendants be declared combinations in restraint of trade and be enjoined from engaging in interstate and foreign trade and commerce, or that a receiver be appointed to take charge of their affairs and administer them so as to bring about conditions in harmony with the law.

The organization of the tobacco trust, according to the petition, dates from the formation of the American Tobacco Company in 1890 to acquire five existing cigarette manufacturers, with joint assets much less than $25,000,000 and an annual consumption of leaf under 15,000,000 pounds.

The allegation is made that the members of the combination have divided up the tobacco business of the world, assigning each to some special territory for un molested exploitation. It is declared that the consolidated corporations annually purchase 475,000,000 pounds of domestic leaf and of the total produced in the United States, Manufacture, sell and distribute more than 280,000,000 pounds 80 per cent. of the smoking and plug tobacco; 95 per cent. of the snuff, 80 per cent. of the cigarettes, 75 per cent. of the small cigars, 95 per cent. of the licorice products, 80 per cent. of the tin foil products and 10 to 15 per cent. of the cigars and stogies; that they are rapidly acquiring control of the ordinary agencies—jobbers, wholesalers and retailers—through which tobacco products are distributed.

Of the total annual production of domestic tobacco, estimated at 800,000,000 pounds, 75 per cent. is purchased by the American Tobacco Company and its associates and its allies at prices which the Government alleges to be unlawfully influenced by the combination. It is said that this is in defiance of the usual laws of trade where open competition by many separate and independent concerns control the price.

After reciting the bitter trade war between American and England concerns, the petition shows how the combinations in the countries, wearying of competition in 1902 entered into written agreements each not to interfere with the other along certain well-defined lines and together forming the Imperial Tobacco Company to carry on the trade and commerce in other countries without competition. The Government declares that this division of the world has ever since been strictly observed and the three companies with their allies and assistants have all been operated in harmony.

An interesting chapter of the petition is devoted to methods of distribution of tobacco products. The Am-

Verdict for Dr. Pierce AGAINST THE Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the slanderous and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of woman's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $200,000.00 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business, furthermore, that no alcohol, or other injurious, or habit-forming, drugs are, or ever were, contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from native medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatever; and that Mr. Bok's malicious statement was wholly and absolutely false.

In the retraction printed by said Journal they were forced to acknowledge that they had obtained a list of "Favorite Prescription" from eminent chemists, all of whom certified that it did not contain alcohol or any of the alleged harmful drugs. These facts were also proven in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of Dr. Pierce was greatly injured by the publication of the libelous article with its great display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the wickedly defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however, brought before a jury in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the Doctor's favor. Thus his traducers came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

erican Tobacco Company in 1901, the petition states, secretly acquired control of the United Cigar Stores Company, and through it retail tobacco cities, which by reason of the powerful support and influence of the combination have quickly secured a dominating position in the trade and are destroying competitors.

Century Old Bride to Wed Man 102.

Tate Springs, Tenn., July 17.—A bridegroom of 102 is waiting for the sweetheart who has been true to him for eighty years since the day when a girl of twenty she plighted her troth. John B. Bundren, the patriarch of Tate Springs, who in his old age came back to enjoy the fortune he had made in his youth wed on August 26, her one hundredth birthday, Miss Roes McGuire, on the very spot, now included in his estate, where he won her consent so long ago.

Then the family of Miss Rose, who had come from England, frowned on the suit of the impulsive boy, and to separate the love-sick pair sent the girl to her English home in Preston, Lancashire. Bundren, in despair, went to the gold fields, and yesterday he returned here unwed to pass the remainder of his life and the scenes of his vanished happiness.

Bundren conceived the idea of having a reunion at his home of those of his early associates who might still be living and in the course of his preparations learned of the address of Rose McGuire. Correspondence followed and the two old lovers renewed their vows. The invitations to the reunion became wedding cards and 200 guests all more than fifty, will respond. Some of Bundren's friends have crossed the ocean to escort the aged bride to her new home. She will arrive this month. "Love is like good wine," said Bundren in discussing the situation. "It gets mellow and richer the older it gets."

THIRD REGIMENT DRY AND WAS "GRUBLESS"

That is a Story Which Comes Back by the Way of "Henderson Town."

According to the story told by a few of the young men who quitted the military companies of the Third Kentucky regiment at Lebanon Junction and returned to their home rather than continue the journey to Jamestown, Company B as well as the rest, was not traveling de luxe, neither did the boys in kaki find everything pleasant, says the Henderson Gleaner.

A five-gallon cooler of ice water was provided on the train for Company B, and there were sixty-three persons on board to drink it. The supply did not last the first round and the soldier boys were compelled to drink whatever they could get hold of.

One young man returned immediately after the train reached Lebanon Junction, saying that the special was delayed about seven hours before starting to Louisville, and that probably fifteen men deserted and caught trains coming back this way.

A Henderson boy said there was nothing to eat on the train and that reached Owensboro late Tuesday night, there being no hotels or lunch-rooms accessible in the small towns along the railroad between Owensboro and Lebanon. He enjoyed seven ham sandwiches made of stale bread bought in a lunch room in Owensboro, relishing them as if they were fresh fried chicken.

When Opportunity Knocks.

How well President McKinley was prepared every time opportunity knocked at his gate was told by Mark Hanna in a reminiscence after-dinner hour. Mr. Hanna was engaged in a very important litigation over some coal land left him by his father. The case was in charge of ex-Senator Thurman, and associated with him were several prominent Cleveland attorneys. It was near the end of the lawsuit. The last witness had been sworn. Senator Thurman arose to address the Judges of the Supreme Court of Ohio. Suddenly the brilliant lawyer trembled and stopped speaking. He had to be taken from the room because of the stroke that later caused his death. After order had been restored, the Chief Justice ordered the case to go on. Unbidden opportunity knocked at the gates of the associated attorneys. "It was the hour of fate." Not one of them, however, was able to rise to the occasion; and opportunity, for once at any rate turned away. Mr. Hanna thought that the case was surely lost. In his perplexity a young man stepped up and asked to speak to him for a moment. In the interview which followed, the stranger showed that he had neither been "sleeping" or "feasting." Up and awake, he was prepared to seize the hand of opportunity even before it touched the gate. He said that his name was William McKinley; that for several years he had seen that the developing of the coal fields was certain to give rise to litigation, and that having thoroughly studied the laws relating to such cases, he was prepared to go on with the suit.

The case was given over to Mr. McKinley. For three hours he brought argument after argument before the court and won the case. The victory secured for him the lifelong friendship of Mr. Hanna.

Opportunity again found Mr. McKinley waiting at the gate. This time it was in Congress. Seeing that trade conditions were not very stable and that a revision of the tariff was sure to come, he prepared for the hour of opportunity. It came, and then, without doubt or hesitation, he took up the work and brought forth the famous bill that bears his name.

Those who knew Mr. McKinley best say that he also followed something greater than opportunity, and that through it he conquered every foe, including death. At least, the words of his favorite hymn which he repeated just before the end, suggest that he would be able to conquer "the last foe to be subdued."

"So long Thy power hath blest me, sure it still will lead me on O'er moor and fen, o'er crag and torrent, till the night is gone."

The Mysteries of Sleep.

It is related of a Chinese merchant who was convicted of wife murder and sentenced to die by being deprived of sleep that he was placed in prison with guards charged hourly for the purpose of preventing him from sleeping. After the commencement of the eight days his suffering was so intense that he implored the authorities to strangle, guillotine, burn him, down him, gash, shoot, quarter, blow up with gunpowder, or put him to death in any conceivable way.

Natural sleep has been defined as mental rest produced by an appetite resulting from fatigue. But the idea that mental rest means mental inaction is hardly tenable, inasmuch as it quite frequently happens that the solution of unsolved problems is the first thing to appear in the consciousness on awakening and thus the mind must have been operative while asleep.—Harper's Weekly.

Force Him Off.

Judgment of the Clark Circuit Court awarding Mrs. Abrelia Marcum widow of James B. Marcum, who was assassinated while standing in the door of the county courthouse in Jackson several years ago, damages in the sum of $8,000 against James Hargis and Edward Callahan, former County Judge and Sheriff of Breathitt county, on the ground that they had caused him to be shot and killed, was upheld by the Court of Appeals last Friday. The opinion of the court was handed down by Justice Hobson. Judges Lassing and Nunn dissented from the opinion of the majority of the court and united in a dissenting opinion delivered by the former.

The action by Mrs. Marcum was against James and Alex Hargis, Edward Callahan and B. F. French. The case was tried before a jury, who found the defendants, Alex Hargis and B. F. French, and for plaintiff against the other two defendants named in the petition.

Judge Hargis, who has been thus sentenced to pay a judgment of $8,000 for assassination, is a member of the Democratic State Executive Committee. The Times understands that the exceeding indelicacy of his longer remaining a member of that body has been, time and again, suggested to Judge Hargis, without results.

The Times desires to go on record as protesting against the further retention of Judge Hargis in any political capacity whatever. If Judge Hargis declines to resign, the executive committee should pass a resolution denouncing his conduct and declining to hereafter associate with him.

Kentucky Democracy can not afford to condone, or even countenance, the retention of this man in its councils. His sitting there is an insult to his party and an affront to political decency. He has been adjudged an assassin by a Democratic Court of Appeals and ordered to pay $8,000 damages to the widow of his victim.

Judge Hargis should be forced off the Democratic State Executive Committee. His very presence is pollution; his touch means political death. Force him off—the quicker the better.—The Glasgow Times.—Dem.

Judge Hargis is still a member of the Democratic State Committee.

The Republicans demand a non-partisan judiciary. Will the Democracy say as much?

If the two parties decide to open the campaign in Kentucky at this time, it will be a warm one.

We hope our great fleet will not fire on any fishing boats, on its way to the Pacific. It would indeed be a bad omen.

Louisville surely does not intend to remove all the crookes, gamblers and election thieves just before an other census is to be taken.

The Republican State platform declares in favor of divorcing our schools and Charitable Institutions from politics. What do the Democrats say?

An Exchange asks, "what is a progressive Democrat?" A progressive Democrat is one who votes the Republican ticket.

It will be heart rending to see the Courier-Journal and Times training along in support of the Post Democrats city and county ticket, this fall.

He who admits that he can see no good in his opponent and discredits all his virtues, writes himself down, unconsciously perhaps, a narrow mind ed bigot.

Kentucky school teachers should be proud that this is campaign year.
The per capita for the year by virtue thereof will be $3.40 as against $3.30 last year.

Why don't Gov. Beckham select Hon. C. J. Bronston, of Lexington to try the Hargis case. He has recently given most convincing evidence of his qualifications.

And now, Mr. Cortelyou is suggested as the Republican candidate for President. Some one will surely be nominated, who is known to have voiced the Republican ticket at some period of life.

If Mr. Daniel who comes to Hartford to serve only a few months, under appointment as jailer, makes a good official, he should not have any opposition from Republican quarters for the nomination this fall.

Richard W. Knott has a keen nose for the "pie counter." However, except in Federal elections, it is invariably turned in the wrong direction.
Louisville Republicans may take courage from this in their coming munic-pal contest.

The attempt upon the part of some Democratic newspapers, to laugh away the thin fears of the Republican State ticket and platform will become more and more amusing as the campaign progresses, and in November their laughter will be turned to tears.

The Hartford Herald has at last half heartedly by reproducing an article from the Hopkinsville Kentuckian, declared in favor of removing Jim Hargis from the Democratic State Executive Committee. If it will follow more closely its brother Democrat editors it may eventually get right on some questions.

Strange that Beckham and Bingham, who have both accepted the emoluments of offices procured through debauched elections, should be leading the pure election revolution. Have they stolen the habiliments of heaven in which they may fool the people? We are always suspicious of an extreme reformer, who gets it suddenly.

The Louisville Herald is by far the most popular daily which comes to Ohio County. Republicans are learning to trust it as never before. This is due to the fact that the paper, under its present management, shows a broad and liberal spirit upon all questions. The party has long needed such an organ in Kentucky as the Herald of today.

In the selection of Col. Albert Scott,
Hon. A. S. Bennett and Editor John C. Wood members of the State Com-paign Committee, the Republican nominees have made no mistake. Each member of the Committee is especially fitted for the work to which he will be assigned. Col. Scott, the chairman, will direct the financial management, Senator Bennett, organization, while Mr. Wood will be in charge of the speakers bureau.

Hon. R. M. Jolly, who died at Irvington last week, was a splendid type of Kentucky manhood. His personal popularity among his people made it possible for him to overcome a large Democratic majority, as a Republican nominee, for State Senator. He served his constituents faithfully in the upper branch of the General Assembly, through several sessions. Although still quite young in years, he had held many places of honor and trust, and had been a prominent factor in his town and county. The death of such men as "Bob" Jolly is not alone a loss to their party, but to their county and State as well.

And now, lo and behold; Mr. Scott Bullitt has been appointed Sheriff of Jefferson county by the Beckham County Judge. We thought at the time there must be something back of those honeyed words uttered by "brother Marshall" about the Governor at the late Republican State Convention. Governor Beckham has gotten to himself a great name, as a politician, and it is conceded that he runs the Democratic part of the State, but it is the first time he has ever invaded a Republican State Convention with a speaker, whose words, in the light of subsequent events, almost brand him a personal representative.

Some people who are inclined to be optimistic or bombastic are fairly gloating over candidate Hager's recent declaration, in a private letter, on the Sunday closing question. They overlook the fact that the party he represents is not bound by any declaration on the proposition. They seem farther to have failed to note that Mr. Hager has been the nominee of his party for Governor more than half a year before he gave utterance to a single statement as to his position on the question. They have ignored the fact that the present incumbent who Mr. Hager is seeking to succeed was Governor six years before he attempted to exercise his prerogative in the matter of closing saloons on Sunday. We would not disparage in the least these gentlemen's intentions for good but simply make these observations so that you may know what has actually been doing.

Everybody seems to have read and understood the declaration of Republicans in their platform in favor of a county unit law except the Hartford Herald. Even the Anti-Saloon League recognizes Republicans as the pioneer champions of the county Unit
Law. In addressing a letter to Mr.
Willson the Republican standard bearer the League explains that the letter was sent to him merely because it was sent to all the candidates, "for," said the letter, "we do not mean in any way to question the sincerity of the Republicans in declaring for a county unit bill." "We take it to mean continues the letter that this plan announces in favor of a county unit bill which will cover all counties without regard to any classes of cities they contain. The Republicans in the senate of the legislature in 1906 fought for the adoption of such a bill, which was amended by the Democrats so as to omit counties containing cities of the first four classes."

Willson Will Start Ball Rolling at Maysville.

vember.

The Republican Campaign Committee has determined to have the State campaign opened by Mr. Willson at Maysville on August 19th. He has spoken in all the counties at various times except 19. He will visit these first, and then cover as many more as possible. The Louisville Herald says of the committee meeting held Thursday:

"The committee organized by electing Col. A. P. Scott, Chairman of the Louisville and Jefferson County Committee, for permanent Chairman; Senator A. S. Bennett, Secretary of the State Central Committee, Secretary, and John C. Wood, of Mt. Sterling, Treasurer.

Further arrangement of the speaking program for the campaign will be taken up at a meeting of the Campaign Committee to be held subsequent to a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee to be held at the Louisville Hotel next Friday afternoon. After that time the Campaign Committee will take permanent possession of the State headquarters and complete the plan of campaign.
Among the spellbinders who will canvass the State with Mr. Willson are Judge James Breathitt, nominee for Attorney General; Dr. Ben Bruner, nominee for Secretary of State, and former Governor W. O. Bradley.

Special engagements are to be made for visits and speeches by Vice-President C. W. Fairbanks, Senator
Foraker, Secretary Taft and Speak-

Men Whose Nets Were Burned.

Frankfort, Ky., July 15.—Special
Judge J. F. Johnson, in the County Court here to-day upheld the constitutionality of the State fish and game law. The decision was made in the case resulting from action taken by the Franklin county Game Warden against Newton Dean and others charged with netting fish in the Kentucky river. Game Warden Duvall burned a pile of captured nets in the court house yard and Dean and other plaintiffs filed suit to recover damages against him.

FRIENDS OF HARGIS KILLED CURT SMITH

Brother or Man Who Confessed to Killing

Of Cockrell and Cox is Enticed Into Card Game and Killed.

Lexington, Ky., July 15.—Enticed into a card game, and finding himself hemmed in by enemies on all sides Curtis Smith, a brother of John Smith one of the alleged murders of James Cockrell and Dr. B. D. Cox in the Hargis-Cockrell feud, died, revolver in hand doing his best to shoot his way out of the trap.

Smith, with some friends, had gone to Elkatowa, a small railroad station in Breathitt county, some fifteen miles from his home on Long's Fork. He was told that his enemies, the Hargises and the friends and relatives of John Abner, were going to kill him, but he scoffed at the idea.

When he entered a card game with Seigel Turner, and looking up, saw several of the friends of Abner and the Hargises closing in the room, he jumped to his feet, and placing his hand to his hip pocket, demanded that the door be opened.

Turner, rising from the table, drew his revolver and shot Smith twice before he got his revolver into action.
The wounds did not cause instant death and Smith shot three times at Turner, but the latter had crouched behind the table and was not hit.

Smith died in a short time and thus another important witness against the Hargis gang has been put out of the way.

The dead man was a brother of John Smith, one of the men who confessed to taking part with the Hargises in the assassination of James Cockrell and Dr. B. D. Cox, and who told the same in the recent trial of Jim Hargis at Lexington.

Since the trial of James Hargis for the Cockrell murder there has been bad feeling between the Smiths and John Abner and his friends, and Smith's death is no doubt due to this feeling.

In view of the trial of Hargis at Sandy Hook it was important to get all evidence possible out of the way.

STREET FAIR A SUCCESS.

Many Persons Attended From a Distance Saturday.

Satisfactory Awards of Premiums Made by Impartial Judges.

Although the Street Fair was not very well attended last Friday, the Saturday crowd was up to the usual standard. No doubt the fact that the farmers are exceedingly busy just now kept hundreds away.

The Centertown Cornet band came up Saturday morning and made splendid music throughout the day. It was noticeable that the ladies in attendance outnumbered the men about two to one. This may account for the quiet good behavior which prevailed, though this is almost always true of an Ohio county gathering.

The premiums were awarded by fair and impartial judges, who tried to do even handed justice. Of course there were some disappointments, but in every instance the losers took their defeat in good humor.

The following are the premiums and names of the lucky ones:

1. U. S. Carson—Best Spring Colt, premium, 22 rifle, won by R. H. Brown.

THE SUPERIOR BRAIN AND ITS ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

High Intelligence Covers a Multitude of Matters But Line Should not be Stified.

It is sometimes lamented, says the London Morning Post, that scientific men should stray into politics, because it is assumed that the special intelligence which has given them eminence in their own work will not serve them in applying their minds to problems outside it. Is there, on the other hand, such a thing as general intelligence, and can we assume that a man whose brain is especially effective in the work he has chosen will enable him to apply a higher level of intelligence to some other, indeed, to most other work? The question has lately aroused controversy in the Zeitschrift fur Psychologie, and is discussed in the Revue Scientifique. The German investigators have begun at the beginning by endeavoring to find whether sharpened faculties run in groups and whether for example, there is some correlation of the senses of touch and of hearing. An additional test consisted in asking the candidate to put together or combine fragments of different passages in various authors—in short, it is what we might call a "general intelligence" test. The result of subjecting a large number of persons to these tests was to establish a distinct relation between the ability to pass one test and the ability to pass them all. In other words, there was an intimate and a constant connection between ability in one subject and ability in all, and this central factor of ability, as it was called, remained almost exactly the same when the examination was made by different experimenters. Whence the German psychologists Kruiger and Sepperman argue that there probably exists a similar central factor for intelligence, and that high intelligence in the subject means not a specialized but a superior brain.

Weight of the Mails.

For the first time in the history of the postoffice department every piece of mail, no matter of what class, deposited either in a postoffice or on a railway mail car, beginning July 1st, is to be weighed to determine the exact amount of mail matter handled and for the purpose of finding out how the mail service may be improved. Each weight is to be recorded and reported. The weighing will be continued until January 1st. At the end of six months the various reports will be forwarded to Washington. The order is to effect all post-offices from the first to the fourth class.

What Judge Toney Thinks of Kentucky Politics.

Judge Sterling B. Toney, former Judge of the Chancery Court of Jefferson county, has the following to say in the Denver Post of political conditions in Louisville.

"I would as soon steal a Republican's pocketbook as steal his office one is as criminal as the other. I am a Kentucky Democrat, but the Democratic machine in this State is as corrupt as the Democratic machine in any other State. That machine and all other machines of all political parties should be put out of business.

"I am glad to see that Denver county has purchased voting machines. That will help to do away with the other machines. Any man who wants to run for office can do so without having to pull his hat off to boss. He can run his merits, and those machines will count the votes he gets."

These statements were uttered this morning by Sterling B. Toney when he was speaking of the recent decision by the Kentucky Court of Appeals in the Louisville election cases.

"As you will remember there was an election in the county and city of Louisville November 7, 1905. The Republicans were fairly and honestly elected, but the Democratic machine counted in the Democratic candidates, giving them majorities ranging from 3,000 to 5,000 votes. The Republicans contested the election and that contest has just been settled, after nearly two years.

"A Democratic Court of Appeals, mind you rendered a decision ousting the Democrats. The offices are now vacant and will be filled by appointment, some by Governor, others by the County Judge and Mayor."

Mr. Toney then went over the opinion of the higher court and epitomized a few of the reasons for the decision, as follows:

"Illegal registration; Democratic clerks steal and destroy ballots; raid polls and burn ballots; police raid polls and arrest Republican officers; police forge returns; force and violence rampant; advanced Democratic voters and made Republican voters stand back; Republican sheriff beaten into insensibility; polls not opened until noon; Democrats confess fraud; rewards for criminals; election not free and equal; Democratic Campaign Committee guilty of fraud."

Speaking of previous conditions in Kentucky, Mr. Toney said he really believed that Taylor, who now and has been a fugitive from justice since the assassination of Goebel, was elected Governor.

CHANCE FOR A GIRL BETWEEN 17 AND 20.

Tennessee Man in Letter to Sheriff Harl Says he Wants a Girl.

G. H. Greer, of Jackson, Tenn., wants a girl, has written to Sheriff J. B. Harl about it. He prefers that she be an orphan, but this is not absolutely required. The requisite qualifications are that the girl must be not less than seventeen nor more than twenty years of age, must have a good school education and be able to write a good hand and must be neat in appearance.

Mr. Greer states in his letter that he is prepared to "do the right thing by a girl possessing these qualifications. He says that he will expect her to learn the jewelry business and assist him in his store. As to his own character, Mr. Greer refers all persons concerned to any bank in the city of Jackson. Sheriff Harl has presented the proposition to several young women, but has not found a "taker." Mr. Greer says that he has plenty of money and relatives, and with this ordinarily fetching argument, Sheriff Harl expects to land a girl for the Jacksonville.—Owensboro Messenger.

What Caused the Hard Times.

The Lewiston "Sun" solemnly declares that it was not the Tariff but currency that "caused the hard times of 1893." The year 1893 was a period of apprehension and consequent depression among business men who were not disposed of take chances in the face of the declared intentions of new Democratic administration controlling both branches of Congress, and outspoken in its hostility to the long established policy of Protection. Panic conditions, however, and universal hard times did not come until the latter part of 1894, following the passage of the infamous Free-Trade Wilson bill, which closed our mills and factories all over the land by putting them into competition with the mills of Europe operated by cheap labor. These hard times continued, getting worse and worse, until after the passage of the Dingley law July 24, 1898, since when the country has enjoyed an era of uninterrupted and unexampled prosperity.—Augusta "Journal."

Plea For Enlisting.

No man who will look carefully into the work of the army or of the navy can fail to realize that a career in either branch of our military service in one to which any man may give himself with the fullest devotion and with the highest ideals. Americans, as a rule, know little about the actual work of either of these services and few realize that when a man enters the service of the army or of the navy, whether as an officer or as an enlisted man, he enters a great school, a school in which is taught not only the discipline of self-restraint, of cleanliness, of devotion to duty, but in which are taught also the elements of an education. An enlisted man who enters a regiment of the army, barely able to read or write comes out, if he be a man of ambition and industry, at the end of three years, in possession of the fundamentals of an education. His officer stands to him not only in the relation of military director, but in the relation also of a teacher and of a friend. There is no career open to an American boy, unless it may be that of a teacher, which offers a larger opportunity than that of the army or navy officer to minister to the service of men.—H. S. Pritchett, in July Atlantic.

Can Cut Our Duties in Two.

If all the German exporters can arrange to do their own valuing at our custom houses they can not only secure a reduction in duty amounting to 20 per cent, but they can cut our ad valorem duties in two by merely cutting in two the actual value of their goods. Not only can the German exporters do this, but all European exporters can do it, for, of course, it is our purpose to apply the new customs regulation to imports from all favored nations. If this is the situation which actually confronts our customs department it is quite in order to suggest that Congress shall take some action to prevent such wholesale nullification of the Tariff duties enumerated in the Dingley law.—Sioux City "Journal."

CITRIC ACID.

The Way the Secret of Its Manufacture Was Stolen.

The proprietor of an old chemist's shop, close by Temple Bar, in days gone by enjoyed the monopoly of making citric acid. More favorably circumstanced than other secret manufacturers, his was a process that required no assistance. He employed no workmen. Experts came to sample and assort and bottle his products, but they never entered the laboratory. The mystic operations by which he grew rich were confined to himself. One day, having locked the doors and drawn the window blinds as usual, sure of the safety of his secret, the chemist went home to his dinner. A chimney sweep, or a boy disguised as such, wide awake in chemistry, was on the watch and followed the secret keeper to Charing Cross, and, sure that he would not return that day, the sooty philosopher fled rapidly back to Temple Bar, ascended the low building, dropped down the flue, saw all he wanted to and returned, carrying with him the mystery of making citric acid. The monopoly of the inventor was gone a few months after, and the price was reduced by four-fifths. The poor man was heartbroken and died shortly afterward, ignorant of the trick by which he had been victimized.—London Spare Moments.

No Wonder the Son Was Surprised.

A melodrama was some years since played in a certain theater, the chief actor in which had made himself, from his overbearing conduct, disliked by one and all. In the last scene he was supposed to visit the tomb of his ancestors. In the center of the stage, upon a marble pedestal, stood the statue of his father. A heavy fold of drapery covered the figure.

Enter Albert. "Once again," he says, "let me gaze upon those features which in life so often beamed with tenderest affection. Father, thy mourning son now comes to pay thee reverence. Let me remove the veil which from vulgar gaze shields the image of a once dear parent."

The drapery fell aside, and, behold, the father stood upon his head! The effect cannot be described. It was electric. The shouts of laughter which followed effectively put an end to the scene, which changed to the next as quickly as possible amid the bravos of the audience, the anger of the manager and the uncontrollable rage of the actor.—London Tit-Bits.

What Would You Do

If three good physicians should pronounce your case hopeless. If they should decide that you could not live longer than six weeks. And if you should get well, after using only $12.00 worth of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerve, what would you advise a friend in like condition to do?

"I have to thank you for saving my wife's life two years ago. We had continued with the doctor until the third doctor, like the two previous ones, said that nothing could be done for her; that she had better be taken home from the hospital to quietly wait her time, which would not be over 6 weeks at the most. I brought her home, and then I thought probably Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nerve might help her, so I got a bottle of each and some Nerve and Liver Pills and commenced to give them to her. We soon seen an improvement, and encouraged by this we continued giving the medicine. We gave her eleven bottles in all of the medicine. She takes it occasionally now if she feels the need. I am in the ministry, and have been for 44 years."

must win upon their merits. The International Dictionary has won a greater distinction upon its merits and is in more general use than any other work of its kind in the English language.
A. H. Sayce, LL.D., D.D., of Oxford University, England, has recently said of it: "It is indeed a marvelous work; it is difficult to conceive of a dictionary more exhaustive and complete. Everything is in it—not only what we might expect to find in such a work, but also what few of us would ever have thought of looking for. A supplement to the new edition has brought it fully up to date. I have been looking through the latter with a feeling of astonishment at its completeness, and the amount of labor that has been put into it."

FARM-FIELD AND GARDEN

BRUSSELS SPROUT.

Land in a Good State of Cultivation is Required.

By repeated trials and the study of the habits of the Brussels sprout this plant has grown in favor and proportion until it has become one of the leading factors in farming on eastern Long Island. From the few quarts first raised and used it has grown in popularity until today millions of quarts are used and are shipped from Long Island to all the large cities in the United States, says a grower in Rural New Yorker.

Long Island soil and climate seem especially adapted to the Brussels sprout, but the writer knows of no reason why it cannot be grown in all

most any climate where the cabbage and cauliflower thrive. They are grown in a small way by some of the market gardeners around Boston, but a great many Long Island sprouts find their way into this market. Orient, N. Y., seems especially adapted to raising the seed, and this seed is eagerly sought for by the farmers on Long Island. This seed sells at 75 cents to $1 per ounce.

Our method of culture is as follows: We sow the seed in drill, the same as for cabbage, about June 15. When plants are large enough to transplant, we pull them and plunge the roots in water, pack in crates and take to the field. If it is a very dry spell, we use transplanting machines. If the weather is favorable, we use dibbers, setting the plants eighteen inches in the row, with rows three feet apart. The land must be in a good state of cultivation, as sprouts are gross feeders. Use plenty of fertilizer. Thorough cultivation is one of the great secrets of success to this crop and will apply to any other crop. After the crop has matured we cut the plants off just above the ground with a corn hoe, haul them to some convenient place near the packing house and stack them in windrows about a rod wide and any desired length. These windrows are then covered with some kind of litter to protect from wind and cold. Then begins the winter's work of picking. Sprouts are now shipped in quart cups, the same as strawberries, thirty-two, forty-eight and sixty quart crates being used to ship them in. They are picked by the quart, pickers receiving 2 cents per quart. This is done by cutting the sprout from the stump with a small, sharp knife and all the outer leaves trimmed off, leaving a miniature cabbage which is tender and delicious. The yield varies according to conditions. On highly cultivated land 4,000 quarts is often gathered, and from that down to 2,000 is considered a profitable yield.

The Logan Berry.

The Logan berry—a hybrid originated some years ago in California—bids fair to displace on the markets of the Pacific coast the old Lawton blackberry and to some extent the red raspberry. The hybrid is a cross between the two and combines the good qualities of both. It is very popular with housewives, the vines are enormously prolific and propagate readily, and the cultivation on an extensive scale for the markets of the Pacific northwest is planned. This berry shows a wonderful evolution in the fruit industry within a few years. While the strawberry has no rival as an uncooked table berry, in abundance of Logan berries would make it possible to do without blackberries and raspberries, without missing them. The development of this berry and the rapidity with which it has come into market would be phenomenal had not the experiments of Luther Burbank in the plant world during the last ten years have made anything possible in this line.—Portland Oregonian.

Handle With Care.

Handle the milk cow carefully. Induce her if possible to give a little more milk every day, never less. If a cow is permitted to partially dry off, it is next to impossible to bring her back to her normal milking capacity during the lactation period. It is not desirable that new milk cows should be forced, but it is essential for profits that they be handled with great care.—Farm Press.

Sugar Corn and Peas.

Now, friends, do have plenty of sugar corn and peas. Plant both at least twice a month for succession. And don't forget plenty of lima beans. Why, we nearly live on these things for three months of the year! Begin planting peas now, beans and corn next month.—Farm Journal.

AERIAL NAVIGATION.

Horace Walpole's Prophecy That May Yet Be Fulfilled.

In the year 1784 the problem of human flight was occupying a prominent place in the public mind, as it is today. The Frenchman Jean Pierre Blanchard had just made his first ascent from Paris in a balloon filled with hydrogen. He took with him wings and a rudder, apparently proposing to fly, but found them useless. Later Blanchard crossed the channel in his aerial machine. Horace Walpole comments on the doings of the "aironauts," as he calls them. "You see," he writes, "the aironauts have passed the Rubicon. By their own account they were exactly birds. They flew through the air, perched on the top of a tree; some passengers climbed up and took them in their nest." After seeing a balloon descending Walpole amuses himself by meditating on the future of what he calls "aerogation." He sees the art of flying perfected and depositing that of navigation. Flourishing seaports become "deserted villages," while Salisbury plain, Newmarket Heath and the downs become dockyards for aerial vessels. Public roads, becoming useless, are broken up and thus make a great increase in the area available for tillage. Walpole's prophecies may yet be fulfilled.—London Globe.

BUSINESS SUCCESS.

Don't Try to Be a General and a Private at the Same Time.

When you are so buried in the detail of your business that you cannot get a clear, sharp view of your affairs in all their relations, you are in danger of failure.

No great general ever takes a gun and goes with his soldiers into the thick of the fight, where he would be so stunned by the noises and so blinded by the smoke of battle that he could not watch the movements of the enemy, could not see where his own troops needed re-enforcements or how to hurl his forces on the weakest place in the enemy's ranks. He must go where he can watch every movement of the armies.

If you are going to be a general in business, you must keep where you can get a clear view of your affairs and know what is going on everywhere. While you are buried in detail your business may be in a dangerous position, from which you could extricate it if you knew the exact situation.

Many a man fails in trying to be a general and a private at the same time.—O. S. Marden in Success Magazine.

A Hypothetical Question.

"Miss de Synthe," began the young man, "I want to ask you a hypothetical question."

The girl nodded assent. "If a young man of good family and sound health and an assured income of $5,000 were to meet the most charming of girls and feed her ice cream for a year; if she had a complexion like a rose, hair a crown of golden glory, the hand of a fairy, the bearing of a queen; if she knew how not to play the piano, was versed in cooking, competent to superintend a home, and if the young man, auspiciously catching the young girl alone, were to murmur into her ear of pearl, 'Will you marry me?' what, in your estimation, would be her condition of mind and what her answer?"

"While not an expert alienist," responded the girl coyly, "I think she'd believe him a chump for being so slow, but she'd say 'Yes.'"

With the preliminaries thus settled, the naming of the day was a simple matter.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Bee Faster Than Pigeons.

It is not generally known that bees are swifter in flight than pigeons—that is, for short distances. Some years ago a pigeon fancier of Hamme, Westphalia, laid a wager that a dozen bees liberated three miles from their hive would reach home in less time than a dozen pigeons. The competitors were given wing at Rybern, a village nearly a league from Hamme, and the first bee reached the hive a quarter of a minute in advance of the first pigeon. Three other bees reached the goal before the second pigeon. The bees were also slightly handicapped, having been rolled in flour before starting for purpose of identification.

Style in Writing.

We cannot all be Macaulays, but we can greatly improve our style by closely observing his and that of equally notable writers, by being careful to avoid using "flowery"—which are invariably weak—sentences and by not imitating the great Dr. Johnson, who, content to use Saxon words at once pure and forcible in conversation, generally resorted, with a pen in his hand, to those long Latin forms which his soul loved.—O. C. Williams in London Captain.

A Pair of Them.

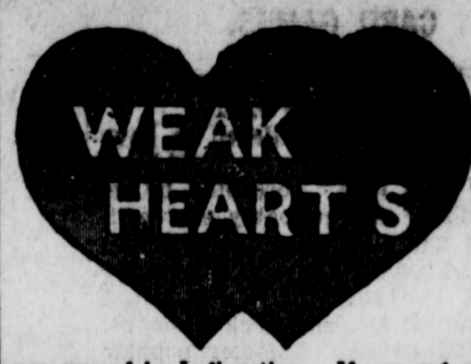

Mrs. Tucker—Tommy, I wish you wouldn't play with that Flango boy any more.

Tommy—Gee! I'm only playin' with him because his mamma told him that if he had anything more to do with that Tucker boy she'd spank him.—Chicago Tribune.

A Chatty Old Lady.

The following advertisement appears in a fashionable English newspaper: "Lonely lady wishes to exchange scandal with another. Replies required only from those in the best 'society.'"

Men of understanding are instructed by reason, the ignorant by necessity and beasts by nature.—Cicero.

are caused by indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

IN THE DEATH CHAIR.

When the Killing Current is Turned On.

He waited a second or an age. Then suddenly it seemed as if he must leap from the chair, his body was swelling to some monstrous, impossible, inhuman shape; his muscles were stretched, millions of hot and dreadful needles were piercing and pricking him, a tremendous roaring was in his ears. Then a million colors—colors he had never seen or imagined before, colors that one had ever seen or imagined, colors beyond the range of the spectrum, unknown, undiscovered, summoned by some mysterious agency from distant corners of the universe—played before his eyes. Suddenly they were shattered by a terrific explosion in his brain—darkness.

But, no; there was still sensation. A violet-purple color slowly spread before him, gradually grew lighter, expanded, ended with a mighty pain he struggled, groping his way in torture and torment over fearful obstacles from some farther distance remote as black stars in the cold abyss of the universe. He struggled back to life, then an appalling confusion, a grasp of consciousness, he heard the ticking of the two watches. Then through his brain there slowly trickled a thread of thought that quivered and glowed like a white hot wire.

A faint groan escaped the pale lips below the black leather mask; a tremor passed through the form in the chair; there was a relaxed and was still.

It's all over. The doctor, lifting his fingers from Archie's wrist, tried to smile and wiped the perspiration from his face with a handkerchief. From "Brand Whitlock's 'The Turn of the Balance'."

TO KEEP YOUNG.

Lessen Your Food Continually as You Grow Older.

What man or woman, growing old, could not give a fortune for the renewal of youth? With a little care they might have kept it for ten or a dozen years longer, but its value was not realized until too late, says Dr. Coe, the noted London specialist.

Up to the age of twenty-three or twenty-five in the case of men and eighteen or twenty in women, the framework of the body is being formed, and the diet should be generous. After the thirtieth year has been passed it is no longer necessary to eat to make more tissues, but only to preserve equilibrium of weight and strength. Yet at that time eating is a pleasure highly appreciated. Therefore men and women eat too much, and this is the time of life when indiscretions in diet produce disease with especial frequency.

Do not eat heavy suppers.
Drink little or no alcohol.
Avoid rich meats and pastry.
Do not grow fat by eating too much.
Fat people seldom reach a good old age. The youthful old man is lean.
Lessen your food continually as you grow older.
Overeating produces all the diseases that make one old.
Underfeeding shortens life.
Just enough and a trifle over is the ideal.

Sweet Potato Pie.
Take several sweet potatoes, and when they have boiled themselves tender peel and slice them. Line the bottom and sides of a deep dish with crust—the dish must be fully three inches in depth—and upon this arrange a layer of the potatoes, buttering them liberally, sugaring them freely and sprinkling them with nutmeg. Add next a layer of very thin slices of dough, sprinkle with hot water, then follow with another layer of sliced potatoes and repeat until the pan is full. The top crust follows, and the pie must then be baked for an hour or more. —Miles Bradford in Bohemian Magazine.

Euphemisms For Death.
"Decease" is now a regular form of word for death. But it began as a gentle euphemism, "deceases" (departure) seeming much less harsh to the Romans than "mors." All languages abound in euphemisms of the kind, which go back to a superstitious reluctance to mention death plainly that gradually passed into a kindly desire to soften the idea. "Passed away," "departed," "gone," "expired" (breathed out), "no more," "demise" and even "the late" are expressions of this nature. Most striking of all is the Roman euphemism for "he is dead," "vixit" (he has lived).

An Artificial World.
The mingled feelings of admiration and skepticism with which we gaze upon the stuffed animals in the toy shops of our youth we still experience in the society of many of the human animals we meet later in life. The more we admire the more do we mistrust, while there is nothing of which we are more convinced than that everything is unreal, from the complexion of our friends to the genius of a great writer. —London Ladies Field.

An Experienced View.
Bride (prettily)—I wonder why they call a wife's allowance pin money?
Matron (savagely)—Because money to buy enough pins to hold her old clothes together is about all that the average woman thinks a woman needs. —Baltimore American.

"Why?"
"He adds one and has two to carry." —Washington Post.

CARD GAMES.

The Earliest Played in England Were Imported From Spain.

Spain is generally believed to have sent us our first card games. "El hombre," or "the man," corrupted by us into "ombre," was probably our earliest card game in England, and that must have come from Spain. Also the oldest packs of cards found in England show Spanish symbols, such as cups, maces and swords. Another popular English card game in the sixteenth century was trump, clearly a form of the Spanish game triumph.

Cards could be bought in 1545 for twopence a pack. These were inferior wretched specimens and most inferior to those produced by the Cardmakers' company of London, in which Charles I. created a monopoly, with the financial genius of his race, by buying them up cheap and selling them at a high price. In this he was a more open rogue perhaps than his father, who forbade card playing in Scotland and indulged in it himself at every opportunity.

Cards have always been a royal game. Queen Elizabeth played cards and lost her temper over them frequently. She was no Anne of Austria, to play "like a queen without passion of greed or gain." In her reign was commanded to be played "at Wyndore a Comedie or Morral devised on a game of the cardes," which resulted in the performance by the children of her majesty's chapel of "Alexander and Campaspe," in which the pretty lines occur:

Cupid and Campaspe played At cards for kisses. Cupid paid.
—London Chronicle.

LEARNING TO SHOOT.

A Simple Rifle Target and the Way to Practice.

The first moving target that I would recommend is one that is simplicity itself and yet, with the assistance of a gentle sloping hill and a friend to take turns with you, will be of great value and benefit. One of the most successful deer hunters I know trained this way, and you will readily see the good points of this practice on trial of it. Secure half a dozen barrel heads for your partner. Have him take a position at the top of the hill and roll these heads down the slope diagonally. At first it will be best to select a fairly smooth slope and have the targets rolled down at a medium rate. At fifty to seventy-five yards take your position, according to your gun and ammunition. If it is a 22, a somewhat smaller target might be used at a little shorter distance. At your signal one of these targets is started on its journey. As it starts bring the gun to the shoulder, taking aim and swinging with the moving object. Always aim to hit the center of the object. You will find that the eye naturally seeks the center, just as it is nature for one to see the front sight through the center of the peep. Do not attempt to hold your gun at a point the target will pass and try to pull the trigger while it passes, but pull when the aim has been secured, just as when firing at a stationary object. —Outer's Book.

Where the "Brave" Excelled.

Bloodthirsty, vindictive, treacherous, crafty, scornful of suffering, brave unto death when at bay, more cunning than the fox and of infinite patience on the trail, the Indian has proved more than a match for the whites in the jungle. It is certain that more whites than savages have perished in forest fighting. But in a set battle the red man is without steadfastness and perseverance. The least reverse heartens him. After the first mad rush his purpose wanes, and the slightest check is apt to dispirit his capricious mind. —Lynn Tew Sprague in Outing Magazine.

His Ancestors.

An Irish gentleman was recently attended by an eminent London physician, who, pausing and looking at him with an inquiring glance, said: "I should like to know, sir, if your family have been long lived?" "Long lived, is it?" responded the patient thoughtfully. "Well, doctor, I'll just tell you how it is. Our family is a west of Ireland family, and the age of my ancestors depended entirely on the judge and jury who tried them." —Strand Magazine.

Embarrassing.

Bobson—You look all broken up, old man. What's the matter?
Crak—I called on Miss Prun last night, and no sooner had I entered the parlor than her mother appeared and demanded to know my intentions.
"That must have been rather embarrassing."
"Yes, but that was not the worst. Just as the old lady finished speaking Miss Prun shouted down the stairs, 'Mamma, mamma, he isn't the one!'" —London Tit-Bits.

Significant Silence.

"What has become of your son, the young inventor, who used to advance such startling theories?" asked a friendly man of an old negro known to the Washington Star. "I never hear of him any more."
"No, sah," replied the shrewd father, "he's really inventing something now."

DOPING A RACE HORSE.

The Way the Potent Drug Affects the Unfortunate Animal.

"No one is likely to be caught in the act of doping a horse," said a prominent veterinarian the other day, "because the dose given is so small that it can be administered under the very eyes of the officials, with little if any danger of detection, and, besides, it is given so long before the race that the horses are not then likely to be under surveillance. If a horse is to race at 3 o'clock he gets a two grain powder on his tongue in a darkened stall at 1 o'clock. The drug takes effect in about thirty minutes, and the animal breaks out into a sweat. He is rubbed down, cooled out and done up as if he had come in from morning work. Every effort is made to keep him quiet until post time, but he very often breaks out again and is again cooled out. The doped horse never takes any warming up work, and this fact affords the best means I know of for finding him out. He is moved slowly to the starting point, great care being taken to prevent him from becoming excited until the flag is dropped. Then a kick and a dig do the work, and in an instant the full force of the dope is felt, stimulating the animal to run the race of his life."

"After the race an antidote is usually given, but it is sometimes well along in the night before the excited horse regains his normal condition. The strain on the nervous system is terrific. For this reason doped horses have short careers, as a rule, and are of little value for breeding purposes." —Kansas City Independent.

FREE TRIP TO THE JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION TO BE GIVEN BY THIS PAPER.

TO TWO MOST POPULAR YOUNG LADIES IN OHIO CO.—ONE NORTH AND ONE SOUTH OF ROUGH RIVER.

Question to be Settled By Ballot, Under Rules Similar to Our Mammoth Cave Trip Last Year.

Last year The Republican gave a very successful free trip to the Mammoth Cave, for Ohio county school boys, determining the favored ones by a popularity contest. We feel, this year, that the young ladies should have a chance. So we have determined to send free of any cost whatever, the most popular young lady in Ohio county, residing North of Rough river, and one residing South of the river, to the Jamestown Exposition. We do not desire to invite any trouble on the age question, and hence make no limit. Any lady who may consider herself young enough to make the trip, may enter the contest. The contest will close Saturday, August 31, at 5 o'clock p. m. The trip will be made sometime in the month of September, and the two successful ladies will be accompanied to Jamestown, one of the editors of this paper, and his wife. Every item of expense including railroad fare, hotel bills, exposition tickets, etc., will be met by this paper.

CONDITIONS OF CONTEST.

Every dollar paid in subscriptions to The Republican, whether arrears or advance, will entitle the person making such payment to 100 votes, and they will be recorded for any one of the candidates as directed. Amounts of less than one dollar will be credited with a proportionate vote. Any one will be allowed to vote for a candidate residing in any part of Ohio county regardless of the voter's residence.

A coupon will be printed in each issue of The Republican, and when clipped and sent to our office, will be counted as five votes for the candidate whose name appears on the same. A supply of blank ballots will be furnished to any one on application. The names and standing of the various candidates will be printed in these columns from time to time. Books will be opened, ready for votes next Monday morning, March 18. Select your candidate, and arrange to aid her in every possible way.
